

How God Is Using This Kingdom Technology to Bring Supernatural Healing

Quantum biofeedback specialist sounds like the professional title of a scientist tucked away in a laboratory in some remote location, undisclosed to the public. Michelle Redden is far from “tucked away.” In fact, the Lord has Redden and her biofeedback company in full sight, as people are getting healed, whole and activated.

As a trained biofeedback specialist, Michelle is reshaping how believers influence cultural mountains. Quantum biofeedback is a type of frequency healing. A software system connects to a computer system and then this system runs a stress assessment test. The computer asks your body what frequencies in your body need to be balanced. Your body then sends a report back to the computer showing which frequencies are off-balance and in what order these frequencies need to be restored. This machine feeds your body the frequencies it needs, and your body will harmonize itself.

Redden originally got the machine to work on herself and her family after an unhealthy lifestyle led her to a slight heart attack when she was in her 40s. Michelle asked her doctor what she needed to do. He put his hand on her heart and said, “Sweetie, if you do not know what is going on in there, how do you expect me to know?”

In the latest Booth To Ballot episode on the Charisma Podcast Network, hear Michelle Redden’s journey of healing from abortion, learning to forgive herself and how the Lord showed up in a physical manifestation so real others experienced the encounter too!

Redden uses quantum biofeedback to help people meet Jesus and walk in a personal relationship with Him. {eoa}
