

How Holy Spirit Can Bring Your Business to Prosperity Through Chaos

During these uncertain times, many businesses have been impacted by the challenges COVID-19 has presented, especially the beauty industry. However, even amid challenges, there is also a fantastic opportunity to pivot.

The beauty of this moment is that everyone, from the unemployed to the struggling entrepreneur, has a chance to chart a new course. As I engaged in an interview with Camara Helps, a celebrity makeup artist and the CEO of Camara Aunique Beauty, we talked through the journey of her experience as an artist and entrepreneur.

In our interview, Helps spoke about being guided by the Holy Spirit in her business and personal life and her testimony of moving from New York to Los Angeles as a part of building her career. This conversation was so enlightening and refreshing as I heard how she allowed the Spirit of God to guide her business decisions and the way her spiritual life blossomed as a result.

Being guided by God, even in business and developing your skills, is one of the rewarding benefits of having a relationship with Him. Helps shares that there is still a peace about being directed by God in your industry, even in difficult times.
