

How Jezebel Lurks Behind Planned Parenthood's Bloodthirsty Agenda

The Daily Caller reported Friday that “the newest bipartisan budget deal represents another political victory for Planned Parenthood.”

The budget deal keeps Planned Parenthood's funding intact. “The abortion giant receives over $500 million annually in federal funding, although roughly $60 million was slashed from its Title X funding by the Trump administration,” the news outlet reported.

Pro-life advocates, most House Republicans and conservative organizations are decrying the continued funding, and they have every right to, says author and national radio host Dr. Michael Brown. Why? Because Planned Parenthood is living up to its bloodthirsty and racist reputation.

Brown writes in his new book, Jezebel's War with America: The Plot to Destroy Our Country and What We Can Do to Turn the Tide, that the evil spirit of the biblical figure Jezebel who lived 3,000 years ago is alive and well today—evident through a militant abortionist agenda.

“When an organization makes billions of dollars killing babies in the womb, it is clearly a bloodthirsty organization,” Brown says. “And when a disproportionate number of those babies are black and Hispanic, it is clearly a racist organization. All this is self-evident when it comes to Planned Parenthood, but recent events—the firing of Planned Parenthood's president and a blatantly racist tweet—underscore just how deeply Planned Parenthood is a bloodthirsty and racist organization.”

Jezebel's War with America, set for release Aug. 6, focuses on the fact that the spirit of the biblical figure Jezebel is at work today, through a fascination with witchcraft and sorcery, radical feminism coupled with the extreme pro-abortion movement, along with other spiritual and cultural forces in an attempt to destroy America. Brown's eye-opening book not only unveils a satanic plot, beginning with an all-out assault on the church, but it will equip every believer with tools to defeat the enemy in their own personal lives as well as in the nation.

First, Brown said, was the unexpected firing of Planned Parenthood president Leana Wen.

"Her primarily failing, it appears," Brown said, "was that she did not have the cold-blooded killer instinct necessary to make abortion the priority of Planned Parenthood. Perhaps it was her training as a medical doctor. Perhaps it was a trace of the image of God that still pervaded her humanity, as much as she was still an abortion advocate. Whatever the underlying causes may be, the broad strokes are clear. As noted by Alexandra Desanctis on National Review, 'The organization has ousted its president, apparently for being insufficiently committed to pro-abortion advocacy.'

"And when it comes to Planned Parenthood's racism, there is a spirited debate concerning the connection between Margaret Sanger, Planned Parenthood's founder, and eugenics," Brown continued. "Sanger's conservative critics are sure that she wanted to reduce the number of black Americans, among other races and ethnicities, if not exterminate them entirely. Her defenders deny this passionately, also claiming that her interest in eugenics was not racial."

Yet, Brown pointed out, even the left-leaning Time magazine admitted in 2016 that Sanger did "make some deeply disturbing statements in support of eugenics, the now-discredited movement to improve the overall health and fitness of humankind through selective breeding. She did, and very publicly. In a 1921 article, she wrote that, 'the most urgent problem today is how to limit and discourage the over-fertility of the mentally and physically defective.'"

And the very left-leaning , Brown added, in an article devoted to debunking a quote attributed to Sanger, uncovered this hardly flattering quote from a 1923 New York Times article. She wrote: "Birth Control is not contraception indiscriminately and thoughtlessly practiced. It means the release and cultivation of the better racial elements in our society, and the gradual suppression, elimination and eventual extirpation of defective stocks—those human weeds which threaten the blooming of the finest flowers of American civilization."

"To my liberal, pro-abortion friends: Are you sure you want to defend Sanger against charges of racism?" Brown said. "But let's not worry about 1923. Let's look at the present, as in July 19, 2019, when Planned Parenthood tweeted, '"Black women are sexy and sexual entities, independent of anyone else's ideas of what that means." For #SummerofSex, our partnership with @WearYourVoice, @GloriaAlamrew talks about creating space for Black girls to understand their sexuality.' As I tweeted in response, 'This is unreal. Planned Parenthood is urging black women to have more sex—which for this greedy baby-killing organization, can mean only one thing: more pregnancies leading to more abortions leading to more money. Sick!'

"Yes," Brown added, "in one short tweet, Planned Parenthood's motives are revealed for the world to see. This, to me, is all part of the 'Jezebelic' attack on our nation. It is an attack we must resist with prayer, with truth and with compassion. May Planned Parenthood be exposed."
