

How Spirit-Led Intercessors Can Pray for America Right Now

If, like me, you feel the urgency in your spirit to pray over our nation, but are unsure where and what to pray into because of all the misinformation, worry no further.

We actually have a road map. All we have to do is listen to whatever the Democrats and the media are denouncing the most.

One example is that this weekend Joe Biden started criticizing the president, saying if he begins to use “executive orders to accomplish policy goals,” then it is an abuse of power.

That’s pretty funny coming from the man who worked under Obama, the president who spent much of his eight years governing by executive orders. So it was OK then, but not now?

What it does is immediately tell us this is of huge concern to the Democrats. They are afraid. So we pray into it.

Everywhere the media declares “conspiracy theory” you know they are scared and trying to throw people off what is happening. Pray into it for truth to continue to come forth.

Whatever buzz word all the media are consistently saying through the day, that is where you pray because that is the misinformation they are trying hardest to make stick.

Where they make the most noise is exactly where we need to pray and call forth the truth in that situation to come forth.

They are giving us the road map.

Let’s use it.
