

How the Tide Is Turning Against Liberal Intolerance

Jason and David Benham had their HGTV show ripped from them after they took a stand for biblical marriage.

However, in the following years, many in the gay community have vocalized support for the conservative brothers.

“By and large, even many in the gay community were just really encouraging and supported my brother and I and say, ‘Listen, we live in a free country and you have the right to express those beliefs,’” David Benham tells Dr. Michael Brown.

Their interview is proof the tide is turning against liberal intolerance.

Watch the video to hear more.