

How This Bethel Grad Brings the Prophetic to You

For Anne Ballard, “words create worlds.” And there’s nothing, Ballard says, that can transform a life more than a well-timed prophetic word from the Lord.

Through jewelry designed by her company, The Crowning Jewels, Ballard and her staff bring words of encouragement to remind people of their calling, their story and their destiny in Christ.

“We founded the company on the belief that declaring and reminding ourselves daily of what God says, His truth, can lead to transformed lives,” Ballard said on recent episode of “Charisma Connection” on the Charisma Podcast Network. “We’re here to remind you who God says you are on each step of the way.

“The truth is, when you are daily walking in the awareness of who you were created to be, there is little that can stand in the way of you walking right into your destiny. We pray and get a word from the Lord, a weighty message that we can encourage our customers with. It’s all about Romans 12 and renewing your mind.”

For more about The Crowning Jewels and its ministry of prophetic declaration, listen to the podcast below.