

Is Chris Reed's Prophecy About China and Xi Jinping Already Coming to Pass?

Read Time: 1 minute 45 seconds

On Oct. 1, Morningstar President Chris Reed shared a prophetic word he received from God on the downfall of Xi Jinping's rule. At the time, the prophecy didn't make sense in the natural because Xi had just been re-elected for a third term.

It's only been two months since his prophetic word and news headlines coming out of China show his rule and support within the Communist Party could already be waning.

After weeks of protestors taking to the streets to voice their concerns over the Communist Party's "zero-COVID" policy, Xi started to ease some of the measures in response to the outcry from the public, which is rare for a dictator.

The government announced they would rollback some of the control on mass testing, the hard lockdown and quarantine requirements as well as the required hospitalizations. They will also be lifting the ban on over the counter cold and flu medications, the government was concerned people would use to hide COVID detection.

The Sun reported that former diplomat and author of "China Coup: the Great Leap to Freedom" believes that Xi's rule "could crumble amid elite pressure and popular protests as those in senior ranks of the party may turn against him." Could someone else rise in his place?

Reed prophesied that a new leader would arise, but their rule would be short. His prophetic word says, "His replacement won't be in power long, for this cruel one will be placed there only to stoke the fires of revolution uprising. The dissatisfaction that has been contained in the Chinese people, will be contained no longer.”
