

Jailed Missionary Leads Inmates to Christ

✖ People in one South Asian village accused Dhevan Das of forcefully converting people to Christianity—a serious allegation, which landed him in jail. But he didn't sit in his cell grieving about the situation. Instead, he saw it as an opportunity to share God's love with his fellow inmates.

The Charges against Him

The accusations came after a believer in his church expressed interest in attending a Bible college. Pastor Dhevan was helping her enroll in the college when villagers began accusing him of forcing her to become a Christian.

He was arrested July 28 and formally charged with forced conversion.

Initially, the police were going to release him on bail until a group of 30–40 people gathered in front of the police station shouting, “Do not release him! He is destroying our religion.” They also filed a complaint against Dhevan.

“I Do Not Have Much Problem in the Jail”

Gospel for Asia leaders in Dhevan's region visited the jail to encourage and comfort the imprisoned missionary.

“No need to worry about anything when God is with you,” they told him.

Dhevan's hope did not dampen under the disheartening circumstance.

Instead, the leaders were amazed to hear about his zeal to reach out to his fellow inmates.

"I do not have much problem in the jail," Dhevan said. "I am taking it as a good opportunity to share God's Word and my testimony with other prisoners."

Fortunately for Dhevan, the jailor keeping watch over him is a friend of the church who told the GFA leaders they would take care of the pastor until he is released.

Released but Still Waiting

Dhevan was granted bail and released on Thursday. Although he was released, the criminal charges against him still stand. If he is found guilty in subsequent hearings, he could be sent back to jail.

Pray for Dhevan as he prepares for the next round of hearings. Pray fervently for the charges to be dropped.

Pray also for those in the jail who heard the gospel from Dhevan, that they will discover a love that sets them free.
