

Jennie Allen Makes Big Plans to Gather Billions for the Gospel

We've seen an explosion of revivals across college campuses in 2023 and 2024, with the masses getting baptized and committing their lives to Christ. At the forefront of many of these massive revivals is none other than Jennie Allen.

Now, Allen is working on a new initiative to share the gospel with the entire world all at once through "Gather25."

The Gather25 website states that their mission is to get 2.5 billion people together as the church.

"On March 1, 2025 the entire global church is invited to come together at Gather25," the Gather25 website reads.

So, how does the entire world come together to talk about the gospel? And what is the significance of the number 25?

"In 2025, for 25 hours, the Global Church will gather across six continents for a time of prayer, worship, repentance and commissioning. Every time zone. Every language. Every denomination. Every generation," the statement continues.

"Some will gather in churches, some will gather in living rooms, some will gather on campuses, and some will gather in stadiums. But we will all be connected at once, across continents, lifting up a single shout of praise and a single prayer to heaven. This is a moment for every man, woman, and child who follows Jesus!"

As these groups around the world get together in person, there will be live broadcasting sites from each continent showcasing different speakers and content.

Back in March Allen saw hundreds of students get baptized at the University of Alabama.

"Last night at the University of Alabama thousands of students gathered. Hundreds responded to the gospel and hundreds were baptized," Allen wrote on Instagram. "People are asking how does this keep happening?"
