

John Piper's Perfect Response to a Married Man Who is 'No Longer in Love' and Wants a Divorce

Famed pastor John Piper made it clear in a recent podcast that "falling out of love" is no excuse for divorce, and he delivered a powerful message about what marriage really means.

Piper made his comments while responding to a man whose son wants a divorce after just two years of marriage.

The man explained that his son is "no longer in love" with his wife and is unhappy, with the dad asking for Piper's advice on how to explain to his son that falling out of love isn't moral grounds for a divorce. {eo}

Click here to read the rest of this story from our content partners at Faithwire.