

Justin Bieber Boldly Stands on 2 Corinthians 5:17

Singer-songwriter Justin Bieber recently posted a personal note about Jesus Christ to the 95 million followers of his Instagram account.

The 23-year-old performer hand wrote a message in black marker on a white dry-erase board and then posted an image of the board for all his social media followers to see.

Jesus is changing me from the inside out everyday! AND I MISSPELLED GUILT and exhausted

A post shared by Justin Bieber (@justinbieber) on Dec 14, 2017 at 7:39pm PST

A user kindly pointed out to the singer he also misspelled “God” with a lowercase “g.”

This is not the first time the pop star has used social media to proclaim his faith.

Back in July, Bieber took to his Instagram account, writing, “Let the devil know NOT TODAY!”, quoting Hillsong United’s song "Not Today."

"The devil has no power when you know the LIVING God! His name is JESUS!! Why worry when you can worship," he also wrote.

In past years, Bieber has gotten himself into trouble for his behavior: vandalism, drag racing and smoking marijuana, to name a few misdeeds.

But his change in word and deed, and his openness about sharing his faith is welcomed by many.

"I look back at a lot of things in my life, mistakes, insecurities, and although I have felt I've wasted a lot of time it also makes me want to be better faster! For me personally, I want to work every day to be BETTER AT 70," he said about a new tattoo in an Instagram post in June.

Earlier that same month, Bieber used his faith to reach out to the United Kingdom to share God's goodness after terror attacks on London Bridge and at an Ariana Grande concert in Manchester left the British nation reeling.

"God is good in the midst of the darkness. God is good in the midst of the evil," Bieber told the massive audience at the One Love Manchester concert, which was held to honor the victims of the attacks.

"God is in the midst no matter what's happening in the world, God is in the midst, and He loves you and He's here for you," he said.

And in May, Bieber made a bold but simple declaration of faith on his Instagram page. All it said was, "I follow Jesus."
{eoa}

Copyright The Christian Broadcasting Network, Inc., All rights reserved.