

Larry Tomczak Refutes CNN Anchor Anderson Cooper's Attacks

TV anchor and 60 Minutes correspondent Anderson Cooper recently announced he's now a father via a surrogate woman. He's not in a gay "marriage," having split from his boyfriend years ago. The New York Times calls Cooper "the most prominent openly gay journalist on American television."

Not long ago, the TV personality ridiculed cultural commentator and bestselling author Larry Tomczak on his nationally syndicated program. Watch this video response from Larry attempting to winsomely and accurately set the record straight from a biblically informed perspective.

Previously, Ellen DeGeneres did the same, and the video includes some excerpts.

Author of the Bullseye Challenge helping develop informed influencers in today's culture, Tomczak is passionate to equip Christians to charitably yet confidently address opponents and hopes this video will be instructive for everyone.