

Larry Tomczak's Week in Review: Prayer and Repentance in Washington, DC

It's been said, "The darkest hour precedes the greatest revival!"

America has hit a tipping point. That is why over 1,000 national faith leaders, U.S. Senators, House members, plus global representatives came to the National Museum of the Bible to humbly repent and do what God calls for to turn our nation back to God.

Individuals publicly confessed their involvement in abortion; corruption; idolatry; homosexuality; lesbianism; gay "marriage"; bisexuality; transgender mutilation; abandonment of men, women and children in Afghanistan; open borders and drug trafficking that has killed hundreds of thousands.

Take 10 to learn of the humbling and spirit of repentance so critical in this hour and how you can witness the entire event at {eo}
