

Larry Tomczak's Week in Review: 10 Things to Do if Trump Takes Back the White House

In five months we will hold what is likely the most consequential election for president in America's history. While our hope and focus are not primarily in an earthly leader, we do know that the Bible says, "When the righteous are in authority the people rejoice, but when the wicked rule, the people groan" (Prov. 29:2, NIV).

When President John Quincy Adams left the White House he was questioned about why he continued to fight against slavery. He told the young congressman, "Duty is our responsibility. Results are God's responsibility."
