

Larry Tomczak's Week in Review: Have We Reached Our 'Braveheart' Moment?

Throughout history, there have come pivotal times, defining moments, where people have to make a clear choice: Will they stand up boldly for what is right or cower and remain silent?

The United States of America is at this point. It is our "Braveheart" moment!

Thirty years ago, the Academy Award for Best Picture went to the phenomenal film "Braveheart," which told the true story of a young man who gave his life to protect his people from tyranny. He inspired them with his words and his actions.

Today, God is raising up "watchmen on the wall" (see Isa. 62:6) to awaken all of us that it is time for engagement and action. We see the perilous direction of our nation and realize we must respond to the uncompromising challenge to turn things around.
