

Lazarus Miracle: Dead Man Prayed Back to Life During Church Service

Dr. Kellie Agueze personally knows that God can change any situation. As a full-time minister, she spends hours warring for nations in prayer, encouraging millions of followers on social media with the Word of God, prophesying to others, and sharing the Gospel message all over the world.

Yet, the most profound miracle she's ever witnessed happened recently in a small church in Roswell, Georgia.

She told CBN News that her husband, Apostle Sino Agueze, holds a monthly "miracle service" at Realms of Glory Church. This summer, she had not been attending the events due to other family commitments, but that changed on July 2nd.

"I felt a really strong impression to come to this one," Agueze told CBN News.

"I had no idea of the miracle I was about to witness with my own eyes," she shared on social media.

The Mississippi native said during the start of the service she was called on stage to pray and released a word of encouragement over one of the worship leaders.

"I noticed, shortly after I mounted the stage, people crowded around a 70-year-old gentleman sitting on the second row. I saw his wife give him water. I saw my husband and others praying. From the stage, I could not see the full extent of what was happening. So I continued my prayer on the stage, released the word to the young lady, and then she and I spent a few minutes in worship," Agueze recalled.

About four or five minutes went by before she came off the stage to return to her seat.

"I come down off the [stage] and they said this man is having a medical emergency," she explained.

Agueze, who began a Facebook Live prayer ministry from her closet in Jackson, MS in 2016, is a nurse practitioner by trade. Although her online prayer ministry has expanded into a full-time calling with "Warrior Nation" ministries, her nursing instincts kicked in when she stepped off stage.

She was reminded of Luke 8:41-56 when Jesus was on his way to raise Jairus' daughter from the dead. In the middle of that urgent situation, a woman with an issue of blood stopped Jesus. To Jairus, it may have seemed like an unwelcome interruption, but it was a divine moment that would change that woman's life.

"Both received their miracle," Agueze remarked on Facebook.

☒ Agueze recalled that she began administering CPR on the gentleman.

"I started to do chest compressions. And I never had this thought in my life, but I knew in my heart I was wasting time," she explained. "Something just shifted in me and I knew I was not going to be able to just save him with CPR."

After the fourth chest compression, Agueze was faced with a life-changing decision.

"I made the decision that I had no choice but to raise him from the dead," she said. "I have to bring this man back to life."
