

'Let Us (Not) Publish'? Sean Feucht Loses Book Contract Over Pro-Freedom Stance

Worship leader Sean Feucht is used to receiving criticism for his boldness to stand up for the constitutional freedom of religion.

He launched "Let Us Worship" during the summer of 2020 as a way to bring hope and joy to our deeply divided nation. Throughout the process, he has been subjected to bitter attacks and threats of violence.

Just last week, Feucht says he lost a book deal with HarperCollins, one of the world's leading publishers, over his political stance.

Just got a call from my book publisher @HarperCollins and they are canceling my book because of my political views.

This is nuts!!!

– Sean Feucht (@seanfeucht) January 10, 2022

Feucht told CBN News that this is a "blatant target on conservative Christians and our views. HarperCollins is trying to weasel their way out of it."

He continued, "They called me and said they were canceling it and that they had a couple of staffers in the marketing department who refused to market it because of my political views."

Feucht even posted an image on social media of the contractual agreement or "deal memo" with the publisher.

It's unfortunate I have to do this, but @HarperCollins is claiming there wasn't a deal to publish my new book. Here is the proof. This is what's known as a "deal memo" in the pub business.

The bottom line is that the woke mob wants to deplatform Christians. Time to fight back.
