

Liberty Students Receive Prestigious Role at Trump's Inauguration

Members of Liberty University's marching band will head north this coming Monday after being asked to participate in President-elect Donald Trump's second inauguration.

The 250-member Spirit of the Mountain Marching Band will travel from Lynchburg, Virginia, to Capitol Hill in Washington, D.C., to perform in the Presidential Inaugural Parade on Jan. 20, according to a report from WSET-TV.

The marching band first announced on Christmas Eve its members had been invited to perform during the day of ceremonies commemorating the country's transfer of power from outgoing President Joe Biden to Trump.
