

Mandisa's Cause of Death Has Been Released

American Idol alum and Christian singer Mandisa's cause of death has been released.

An autopsy confirmed that the Grammy singer passed away from complications of class III obesity.

People noted that the 47-year-old singer's body was found at home by friends on April 18. In the autopsy report, she was "last known alive approximately three weeks" prior to when she was discovered.

Get your FREE CHARISMA NEWSLETTERS today! Stay up to date with current issues, Holy Spirit news, Christian teachings, Charisma videos & more!

Class III obesity, according to the Cleveland Clinic, is formerly known as morbid obesity. It is "a complex chronic disease in which a person has a body mass index (BMI) of 40 or higher or a BMI of 35 or higher and is experiencing obesity-related health conditions."

This cause of Mandisa's passing is listed as a natural cause of death.

Mandisa's legacy began when she quickly rose to fame on "American Idol" where she placed in the top ten. In 2014, Mandisa won a Grammy for the release of her album, "Overcomer."

K-LOVE Radio was one of the first to report on Mandisa's passing.

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

“Mandisa loved Jesus, and she used her unusually extensive platform to talk about Him at every turn. Her kindness was epic, her smile electric, her voice massive, but it was no match for the size of her heart,” the network shared on X.

In a livestream of Mandisa’s celebration of life, Mandisa’s father, John Hundley, said that she did not die from self-harm, and that she had previously battled with COVID-19.

Join Charisma Magazine Online to follow everything the Holy Spirit is doing around the world!

Thank you for visiting . To read the rest of this MyCharisma post, visit this link: .

Abby Trivett is a content development editor for Charisma Media.