

Moms for America, ‘Stop the Steal’ Hold Peaceful Protests to Ensure Ethical Investigation Into Votes

With the large number of suspicious, irregular and downright illegal voting activities uncovered across the country in this presidential election, Moms for America® is calling for a complete investigation and swift resolution of any and all issues uncovered.

“Only then will we be satisfied that the people’s wishes have truly been heard,” says founder and president of Moms for America® Kimberly Fletcher. “Now that the American people have cast their ballots, the voters of this great nation deserve a thorough and complete count of all legal votes.”

In order to ensure this objective remains in the forefront of people’s attention, Moms for America® has joined forces with the “Stop the Steal” national network, which began launching peaceful protests across the United States this past Saturday. A national rally launched by “Stop the Steal” national network will be held at Freedom Plaza and the Supreme Court Building in Washington, D.C., this Saturday, Nov. 14, at 12 p.m. EST.

“We must continue to stand for the principles of liberty enshrined in our Constitution at every level of government, in our schools and in our neighborhoods,” says Fletcher. “Moms for America® encourages moms across our nation to by visiting the Stop the Steal website to learn more about and participate in the peaceful protests in your area.”
