Carrie Underwood Surprises Tennessee Church's Worship Team

Country superstar Carrie Underwood lent her vocal chops to a church in Franklin, Tennessee, over the weekend, where she helped lead a local congregation in worship.

The "Cowboy Casanova" singer-songwriter joined the worship team at Rolling Hills Community Church on Sunday as they sang "Goodness of God" by Bethel Music and well-known worship leader Jenn Johnson.

A portion of Underwood's surprise appearance was posted by fan accounts on Instagram.

Popular Film Presents Youth With Unparalleled Profanity and Perversion

A blockbuster movie in your local AMC theater is being shown 32 times daily here in Franklin, Tennessee. The moviegoers are primarily young people and parents, many of whom don't have a clue what lies ahead. Disney lures kids and young people with an attractive, squeezable action figure in stores as Taylor Swift posts messages and excitement builds for the film heading right for your family living room via Disney Streaming.

They believe they'll see another exciting superhero adventure, played out with incredible special effects, in the Marvel movie universe. Many are jolted by what they see, but sit through the entire flick. I walked out in 30 minutes, incredulous at what I'd witnessed.

Barron Trump Positions Himself as a Future Leader

While his father is arguably the most famous person on Earth at the moment, Barron Trump is working behind the scenes to assist his father in winning the upcoming election and returning to the Oval Office.

Having only recently graduated from high school, the youngest (and tallest) of the Trump children has joined forces with a close friend, social influencer Bo Loudon, to get Gen Z all aboard the Trump train.

Loudon boasts a massive presence on social media platforms, and is the son of former Missouri GOP state senator John William Loudon and TV personality Dr. Gina Loudon.
