God and the World Series: MLB Players Promote Faith on World's Biggest Stage

As the World Series battles on, faith and baseball intersect in a grand slam moment for players and fans alike. This year's matchup between the Los Angeles Dodgers and the New York Yankees isn't just a contest between two powerhouse teams—it's a showcase of faith, with star players stepping up to the plate to share what their beliefs mean to them, both on and off the field.

CBN Sports reporter Will Dawson captures this spirit firsthand, sitting down with players who are unashamed to reveal how their faith keeps them grounded amid the intensity of the season. "Baseball and sports in general is a brotherhood," Dawson notes. "But there's a different battle—a spiritual battle—and it's not just your teammates in this; it's your brothers in Christ."

Dodgers' first baseman Freddie Freeman is one of the many players unafraid to reveal how his faith sustains him. Freeman recently faced a crisis when his three-year-old son was diagnosed with Guillain-Barré syndrome, a serious autoimmune disorder. Reflecting on the ordeal, Freeman says he "leaned on [his faith] a lot." His family, grounded in faith, became his support system, and he drew strength from his team chaplain, Brandon Cash. "Having a great network of people to keep us strong, keep the faith ... it's been really good," Freeman says.

10,000+ Texas A&M Students Gather in Worship, Hundreds Accept Christ

Last night, 10,000 Texas A&M students gathered to praise the name of Jesus. Hosted by Unite US with Jennie Allen and Jonathan Pokluda, the evening included powerful worship, baptisms and hundreds committing their lives to Christ.

"We are absolutely blown away by how God moved tonight in Reed Arena as over 10,000 college students gathered to lift the name of Jesus," Unite US posted on Instagram and Facebook.

We will never take for granted the way God has shown up – night after night, university after university.

People say there's no hope for Gen Z. But after tonight, we have more hope than ever that this generation will lead us in the greatest revival our nation has ever seen.

This may be our last Unite of the semester, but we believe it's only the beginning of all that God has in store.

Is Donald Trump a Christian? Mark Driscoll Weighs In

In a recently posted video, Pastor Mark Driscoll addresses a question on the minds of many Christians: Is Donald Trump truly a Christian?

Driscoll shares his thoughts on Trump's faith, offering insights from his recent experience at the National Faith

Advisory Board event. In the video, Driscoll also encourages Christians to prioritize policy over personality in the upcoming election, emphasizing the importance of aligning voting decisions with biblical values.

“It was largely pastors and ministry leaders,” Driscoll says, recounting a schedule filled with “a lot of worship and a lot of prayer” at the event. He and his wife, Grace, believe it may have been “the last pastor’s Faith event before the election.” According to Driscoll, the timing adds weight to the day, as many leaders anticipate the upcoming election and discuss issues they see as vital to their communities.
