Ohio State Football Players Spark Revival: 'Give Him the Glory'

The college football season got underway last weekend, and players at The Ohio State University have shown that God is moving on campus in an incredible way.

These young warriors of God put together a massive faith event on Sunday, Aug. 25, and received thousands of those hungry for the presence of God. Multiple local churches from the Columbus area were involved in getting the event off the ground and the Holy Spirit showed up in a powerful way.

As reported by The Lantern, "Senior running back TreVeyon Henderson, senior defensive end J.T. Tuimoloau, graduate wide receiver Emeka Egbuka, former Buckeyes wide receiver Kamryn Babb and more Ohio State football players helped lead the ceremony."

Isaiah Saldivar: Why Not All Christians Will Be in Heaven

"Not everyone who says to Me, 'Lord, Lord,' shall enter the kingdom of heaven, but he who does the will of My Father who is in heaven," (Matt. 7:21).

While it's not talked about often, the reality is that many people who consider themselves Christians will not be in heaven, including some who have done miracles, signs and wonders.

In one of his latest videos, Isaiah Saldivar broke down Matthew 7, which explains what it truly means to follow God and why some people will not enter into the kingdom of heaven.

Jonathan Cahn's Prophetic Mystery: Trump and the Election

Does the Bible show us the path America should turn to during this election season?

In his latest prophetic message, Jonathan Cahn unveiled a prophetic mystery of how the Clintons, Barack Obama and Donald Trump all match the descriptions and years of public service of different biblical characters.

In Cahn's book, "The Paradigm," he noted how Bill Clinton fit into the role of King Ahab, as his wife, Hillary, fits the description of Ahab's wife, Jezebel.
