Woke Bishop Turns to Daytime TV for Support After Trump Rebuke

Bishop Mariann Edgar Budde publicly addressed her rebuke of the president during the National Prayer Service on Tuesday.

Speaking to "The View," Budde says that, "My responsibility that morning, yesterday morning, was to reflect, to pray with the nation for unity. And I was pondering what are the foundations of unity, I wanted to emphasize respecting the honor and dignity of every human being."

Budde says she was going against a "narrative" she believes is polarizing and divisive, and that she was deliberately not paying attention to the reactions of Trump and Vance while delivering her message.

A Prophetic Song on Jesus' Return Played at Trump Inauguration, Did You Notice?

An incredible thing happened during the inauguration of Donald Trump on Jan. 20. As the entire world watched, the U.S. Naval Academy Glee Club performed a stirring rendition of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic." To me, it was one of the most memorable moments of the entire day. But what most people don't realize is that the song repeatedly references the book of Revelation and the second coming of Jesus Christ. I don't think that it was an accident that this specific song was performed at Donald Trump's inauguration at this specific moment in human history. This was a reminder to all of us that the great battle between good and evil that has been going on for centuries is reaching a grand crescendo, and it was also a reminder to all of us that we really are living in the end times.

If you missed the U.S. Naval Academy Glee Club's performance of the Battle Hymn of the Republic, I would very much encourage you to check it out, because it truly was extraordinary.

This is one of our most loved patriotic songs, but most people have no idea where the lyrics came from.

Pope Francis Criticizes US Border, Keeps Vatican Under Tight Control

Pope Francis criticized open borders immigration policy, calling plans to deport individuals unlawfully in the United States "a disgrace." The Pope's remarks reflect his broader stance urging Western nations to welcome migrants, a position that has often clashed with conservative immigration policies.

Francis stated, "This won't do. That is not the way to solve things," adding that rejecting migrants is a "grave sin." His comments come as the United States grapples with the consequences of illegal immigration. Under President Joe Biden's administration, over 10 million illegal immigrants, many unvetted, have entered the country. Critics argue such policies undermine national security and economic stability.

Despite the Pope's criticism of U.S. border policies, the Vatican recently enacted stricter measures to secure its own borders. On Dec. 19, the Vatican announced penalties for illegal entry, imposing prison sentences of one to four years and fines ranging from €10,000 to €25,000. The decree targets those who use violence, threats or deception to bypass Vatican security systems or border controls.
