People who sign up for the screening will also experience an exclusive round-table discussion where faith leaders share thoughts about the film and the topic of hearing and acting on the prompting of the Holy Spirit.

“If people don’t hear the Good News, the Good News can’t change the bad news. We started creating the Christ In You films to share the good news of how ordinary people are speaking out to share the gospel in powerful ways,” shares di Meglio. “We hope these films will show that everyone can move in the miraculous. By sharing how God is transforming people through His love, we hope to empower the body of Christ to step out in faith, listen to the voice of God, activate your prophetic gifts and take action according to what He is saying to you.”

Guests on the panel include:

Heidi Baker: Heidi Baker is a Christian missionary, itinerant speaker and the CEO of Iris Global, a Christian humanitarian organization. She is the author of several books on Christian spirituality.
