

Netflix Christmas Film Mocks Nativity, Jokes About Aborting Baby Jesus

Netflix's latest offering, "That Christmas," an animated Christmas movie geared toward families, makes a mockery of the nativity story in one scene garnering a lot of attention.

The movie centers on a ragtag group of kids, all led by a rebellious teenager named Bernadette. At one point in the film, the children come together to put on a school Christmas production written by a couple students who feel the biblical nativity story is too antiquated for modern culture.

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

When Bernadette introduces the program, she describes Jesus as "a cool dude" with a beard and long hair and "into woodwork," calling him "a hipster basically."

As the program unfolds, viewers see the shepherds herding vegetables rather than sheep, and the wise men from the scriptural narrative are replaced with three wise women.

Get your FREE CHARISMA NEWSLETTERS today! Stay up-to-date with current issues, Holy Spirit news, Christian teachings, Charisma videos & more!

The most egregious part of the production, though, comes when the young girl playing the role of Mary, Jesus' mother, sings, "Papa Don't Preach," a 1986 Madonna song about deciding whether to have an abortion. The girl sings as she's hoisting a watermelon with a face carved into it, intended to represent baby Jesus. At one point, another student accidentally knocks the watermelon out of the girl's hands and it falls to the ground, splattering onto the audience.

To read the full story, visit our content partners at Faithwire.

Reprinted with permission from . Copyright © 2024 The Christian Broadcasting Network Inc. All rights reserved.

Join Charisma Magazine Online to follow everything the Holy Spirit is doing around the world!