

NEWSFLASH: President Obama to Address Nation on National Security Matter

☒ NEWSFLASH: The White House has announced that President Obama will be addressing the nation on what's being called an "important national security matter." Multiple news organizations are reporting that the rare Sunday night statement has nothing to do with the operation currently underway in Lybia. The national networks are scheduled to carry the statement live when it happens.