

Old Video About Jesus' Return Suddenly Going Viral

An old video of Anne Graham Lotz talking about the end of the world is going viral.

The video, which was posted on Lotz's YouTube channel in 2014, shows Billy Graham's daughter talking about Jesus' return and the fulfillment of biblical prophecy. According to her ministry, she gave the message in 2009 at the National Religious Broadcasters convention.

"They re-established the nation of Israel and the family of nations in May 1948, and that's significant to me because I was born in May 1948," she said. "And I believe that's my generation, and Jesus said the generation that sees that take place is the generation that's going to see His return and I believe ... if I live out my natural lifetime, I will live to see the return of Jesus Christ to this Earth."

Watch the video to see what else she says.