

'On the Precipice of a Great, Global Revival': Massive Harvest Event Returns Tonight

The much-anticipated SoCal Harvest will take place Oct. 3 at the Angel Stadium in Anaheim, California, where attendees can expect a night full of worship, encouragement and revival.

Pastor Greg Laurie with Harvest Christian Fellowship in Riverside is hosting the event, which starts at 7:00 p.m. PT. After postponing in 2020 due to COVID, Harvest is excited to bring the event back in person.

"I've never in my entire life and ministry encountered more hearts awakened to the Gospel," said Laurie. "I believe in the wake of the global pandemic we might be on the precipice of a great, global revival. I believe we'll see more energy in Angel Stadium on October 3 than we ever have before, and this event will be the first in a series of major events and initiatives that I believe God will use to reach more people in the next couple of years than in the previous decade. We are putting everything we have into reaching everyone we can. We all know now how short life can be."

This SoCal Harvest is going to be different than any other you have ever been to. I would describe it as a more immersive event. As always, the Focus will be on Jesus and how to come to know Him. (This is a Sneek Peek at some of our lighting)
