

Passion Controls You

☒ Passion determines your potential for success. The thing you are passionate about consumes your thoughts and energies. It is the force that causes you to leap over every hurdle. This passion keeps you encouraged when nothing around you is encouraging. Somehow, you can never quit. You can never stop believing in the thing that you are passionate about.

You may not see anything large or significant today. Others may not see what you see. They are not sure it is possible. They may not think you are able to succeed. Yet, you just keep dreaming about it. You talk about it. You plan for it.

Understand that you will never succeed in something unless you are passionate about it. Keep on dreaming. Keep on talking. Keep on planning. Potential is on the inside of you. Let your passion unlock the potential. While others doubt you and want you to face “reality,” passion is birthing something that the world has been waiting for. Let passion do what it was intended to do – cause you to succeed!
