

Pastor Ché Ahn Shares Practical Ways Christians Can Respond to Current Crisis

America is still reeling from the impact of our generation's "perfect storm." Over the past year, our nation has been shaken with so many lives lost to COVID-19, economic depression with historic numbers of unemployment, spikes in personal depression and anxiety, punctuated by the death of George Floyd and other victims of injustice. It may seem hard to make sense of everything that is going on.

But what we can do is look to God's Word, the Bible, to draw encouragement and hope in the midst of these turbulent times. In this new episode of Truth Talks, Pastor Ché Ahn brings a timely word of hope in the wake of the COVID-19 crisis and the nationally televised acts of racism.

In the book of Haggai, written around 516 B.C., God gives His people an incredible promise that includes two main takeaway messages: (1) "I will shake all the nations" and (2) "I will fill this house with glory" (Haggai 2:7). Within the past year, literally all the nations of the earth have been shaken by a global pandemic. But what you may not have realized is that God already has a plan in motion to reveal His glory like never before!

In this moving message, Pastor Ché shares practical ways Christians can respond to the current crisis, as times of upheaval and shaking often precede a greater outpouring of God's glory.
