

Pastor Greg Locke Seeks Reconciliation with The Supernatural Life's Daniel Adams

After publicly parting ways in 2023, Pastor Greg Locke has asked Daniel Adams for forgiveness.

In a statement on Facebook, Locke wrote:

A few years ago, The Supernatural Life founder Daniel Adams and I had a very public falling out over my strong concerns about associations with certain false prophets and related issues in those circles. I've publicly repented for my own early involvement in some of those streams and the way I handled things.

Since losing my son Evan, the Lord has been doing deep work in my heart. I simply don't have room for division or strife anymore. Life is too short, eternity is too long, and the harvest is too urgent.

I'm especially grateful for the kind condolence post Daniel put out when Evan passed—it meant a lot and showed the heart of a brother. I'm sorry for my part in the breach between us. Although we may still disagree on some things, we agree on the main thing: Jesus and reaching people for the Kingdom. I release any offense and extend grace and forgiveness. If the Lord leads, I'd welcome reconciliation as brothers in Christ. Praying blessing over Daniel, his family, and his ministry.

In Jesus' name,

Pastor Greg Locke
