

Pat Robertson Is Taking on Donald Trump Today

Christian Broadcasting Network News Chief Political Correspondent David Brody announced Tuesday afternoon to his "Brody File" readers that he was moderating a political discussion on Wednesday night.

Regent University is hosting a presidential forum featuring Dr. Pat Robertson and Republican presidential front-runner Donald Trump. According to Brody, Trump will have the opportunity to give a campaign-style speech in front of Regent University students, followed by a one-on-one interview with Robertson.

The event will stream live online beginning at noon EST. FOX News Channel will later host its Republican presidential town hall event, moderated by Megyn Kelly, who has a rather acrimonious relationship with the GOP front-runner, beginning at 9 p.m. EST.

Brody explains it all in a video he posted online.