

Paula White: Donald Trump Has 'Deep-Seated' Faith Questions, Hunger for God

Televangelist Paula White says presidential nominee Donald Trump has "deep-seated" faith questions and hunger for God.

"Mr. Trump has those deep-seated faith questions and greater, that deep-seated heart and that desire," the spiritual adviser told CNN.

Popular Pentecostal and evangelical leaders, like Jentezen Franklin and Dr. James Dobson, have affirmed Trump's faith throughout the election cycle.

Yet many Christians worry over his apparent lack of biblical knowledge and profession he doesn't need forgiveness.

So what's going on in Trump's heart? Watch the video to see how White interprets his faith.