

Prophetic Solar Eclipse 'Timing Couldn't Be Clearer!'

A highly publicized total solar eclipse will unfold on Aug. 21, and it has people throughout the U.S. pretty excited. But, beyond that, the celestial event has some Bible enthusiasts claiming that the highly anticipated moment could be a sign from God.

But before we go there, let's first explain what, exactly, is poised to happen in the skies. According to , the sun will disappear behind the moon during the total solar eclipse, creating a twilight that will persist during the day. Meanwhile, the temperature will drop pretty rapidly, as light streams emerge in the sky. Sounds pretty cool, right?

It's an event that's being dubbed the "Great American Total Solar Eclipse," as the sight will be viewable from Oregon to South Carolina.
