

Quote, December

·“The greatest problem for God in His redemptive mission for the world is His own people. What hurts God most is not just the sin of the world, but the failure, disobedience and rebellion of those He has redeemed.”

–Chris Wright, international director of Langham Partnership International and retiring chair of the Lausanne Theology Working Group, during the Third Lausanne Congress on World Evangelization held in Cape Town, South Africa, in the fall. The meeting brought together 4,200 hand-picked Christian leaders to discuss missions strategies for the 21st century.