

Releases Tomorrow: Stephen Strang's Newest Book Reveals Why the Christian Vote Is So Crucial in 2020

Author, Christian businessman and award-winning journalist Stephen E. Strang is releasing his exciting new book—the third in an influential trilogy—“God, Trump, and the 2020 Election,” tomorrow, and his work stresses why the Christian vote will be so critical on Nov. 3.

“Why is the Christian vote more important than ever? The attacks that have left Christians in a defensive mode are only getting worse,” Strang says. “Today, political correctness has gotten so out of control it borders on the ridiculous. Donald Trump might not be the first politician to claim to stand up to this PC culture, but he has definitely taken the fight to a whole new level. He wasn’t an ideological conservative as much as he was just a street fighter for common sense.

“Trump’s only ideology seems to be patriotism,” the author continues. “During his campaign, this was manifest in his concern about not only the state of the country but also the short shrift America had been given in global trade deals, the trillions wasted in foreign wars for which there was no gain, and the precarious condition of our nation’s security. Because of Trump’s America-first commitments, Bible-believing Christians continue to support him through thick and thin going into the 2020 election.”

Throughout the new book, Strang touches upon breaking presidential news, including interviews with faith leaders who predicted the mass resistance against Trump and the concerted effort to unseat him—one way or another—from Day One.

“Since Trump’s election, the crazy extremes of the Left make you wonder if it is shooting itself in the head,” Strang writes. “And if it is, in a way, that’s a good thing. It’s like the maxim that paraphrases Napoleon: ‘Never interfere with an enemy while he’s in the process of destroying himself.’ But if the Left is destroying itself with no vision other than socialism or opposition to Trump, our side must still never become complacent.”

In “God, Trump, and the 2020 Election,” Strang also discusses the urgency of Christians continuing to support the president, as his policies help hold back the Left from crushing the rights of all Americans, including Christians. In 2016, the Evangelical community saw God raise up Donald Trump to lead America at a pivotal time. Evangelicals who recognized this backed him more than any presidential candidate in history.

Heading into 2020, the stakes in his reelection are even higher. Strang’s unique understanding of Christian voters gives him insight into why they supported Donald Trump in 2016 and why he believes they will again in even greater numbers in 2020.

Several cultural leaders have given words of praise for “God, Trump, and the 2020 Election:”

- “Stephen Strang is right: If Evangelicals don’t turn out in 2020, Donald Trump will lose and the Left will win—and continue its work of destroying each of the three pillars of the American trinity: liberty, e pluribus unum (out of many, one) and ‘In God We Trust.’ Why all Christians do not see this is a puzzle. But if enough read this book, it could serve as a wake-up call to the only community standing between our beloved America and her demise.”—Dennis Prager, nationally syndicated radio talk show host and columnist, co-founder of PragerU and author of the bestselling Bible commentary, “The Rational Bible”

- “Stephen Strang does it again by putting God first in the upcoming 2020 elections. Let’s pray that America follows suit, with a victory for President Donald John Trump. Love never fails. God always wins.”—Evangelist Alveda C. King, niece of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and executive director of Civil Rights for the Unborn
- “In ‘God, Trump, and the 2020 Election,’ Stephen Strang provides a compelling account of the high stakes in 2020 and why Christians must be engaged and mobilized as never before. Combining a keen understanding of the Evangelical community with solid reporting on President Trump, this book is must-reading for any concerned citizen and serious Christian.”—Ralph Reed, founder and chairman of the Faith & Freedom Coalition

“God, Trump, and the 2020 Election” is also an inside look into how spiritual warfare is shaping the presidential race, which is an important subject for Bible-believing Christians. The book includes the accomplishments in Trump’s first term and his agenda in the second, as well as first-person interviews.

Stephen E. Strang is the best-selling author of “God and Donald Trump,” which was brandished by the president at the World Economic Forum in Davos, Switzerland, in 2018. The founder and CEO of Charisma Media, Strang was voted by TIME magazine as one of the 25 most influential Evangelicals in America. He has interviewed four U.S. presidents and has been featured on Fox News, CNN, MSNBC, CBN, Dr. James Dobson’s “Family Talk,” The and many Christian outlets. He also hosts a popular podcast, “The Strang Report,” on the Charisma Podcast Network.

“God, Trump, and the 2020 Election” is published by FrontLine, an imprint of Charisma House, which has published books that challenge, encourage, teach and equip Christians, including 15 New York Times best-sellers.
