

Rick Santorum Tries to Prove Himself in Wisconsin

Republican presidential candidate and former U.S. Sen. Rick Santorum (Pennsylvania) gets ready for a friendly game of bowling after speaking to supporters at the Ledgeview Center in the Ledgeview Bowling Lanes in Fond du Lac, Wis., on Sunday. Santorum saw a surprise victory in Louisiana on Saturday, but his sights are now on Wisconsin. He hopes to win over voters by proving he can relate to the average American. The winner-take-all primary election, which offers 42 delegates, will be held April 3.
