

Romney: Trump Administration at a 'Defining Moment'

Failed Republican presidential candidate Mitt Romney took a cheap shot at President Trump—warning that unless he apologizes—the nation could suffer a great unraveling.

“Whether he intended to or not, what he communicated caused racists to rejoice, minorities to weep and the vast heart of America to mourn,” Romney posted on Facebook.

Romney said the Trump administration is now at a defining moment.

“The potential consequences are severe in the extreme. Accordingly, the president must take remedial action in the extreme,” he wrote.

For more on Romney's comments, click here to listen to Todd Starnes' podcast.

Todd Starnes is the host of FOX News & Commentary—heard daily on the FOX News Radio network. For the original article, visit

.