

Sarah Palin: Who Is Running Our Country?

Who is running our country?

We've got a CIA director sharing security info with his mistress using an unsecure Gmail account. We've got the delusional Susan Rice blaming the death of an ambassador on a YouTube video.

We've got Iran firing on one of our drones a week before the election. We've got the White House either ignorant of or covering up all of this.

Who is minding the store?

Everywhere we look we see the rank incompetence or corruption of the people who are supposedly running our country and our major institutions. Let's hope that responsible reporters at Obama's press conference today ask the right questions Americans deserve answers to.

Here's my question for the president: As our nation's chief executive you claim to be unaware of the most important and tragic situations we're facing; so, as a former chief executive, I'd like to know how long it takes for your staff to tell you things like: "Sir, your CIA director is under investigation"?
