

Scottie Scheffler's Viral Moment After Open Victory Proves His True Values

Scottie Scheffler isn't in it to win it – but he just did.

The 29-year-old professional golfer just won the Open Championship days after asking, “What’s the point?” It might sound a bit weird to hear those words from one of the most successful golfers in the game right now, but his point was this: golf is great, but it can’t replace what really matters.

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

“This is not a fulfilling life,” he said during a press conference last week. “It’s fulfilling from the sense of accomplishment, but it’s not fulfilling from the sense of the deepest places of your heart. There’s a lot of people who make it to what they thought was going to fulfill them in life and then ... you get to No. 1 in the world and they’re like, ‘What’s the point?’”

Pre-order Jonathan Cahn's Newest Book, "The Avatar" on !

Scheffler, who is open about his faith in Jesus Christ, admitted he constantly wrestles with why he wants to win “so badly” when he knows victories like that – while certainly an accomplishment – are fleeting.

Get your FREE CHARISMA NEWSLETTERS today! Stay up-to-date with current issues, Holy Spirit news, Christian teachings, Charisma videos & more!

He called the game “one of the greatest joys” of his life, but told reporters it doesn't "fill the deepest wants and desires of my heart." Instead, he said, it's his family that does that.

Join Charisma Magazine Online to follow everything the Holy Spirit is doing around the world!

"That's why I talk about family being my priority, because it really is," he said. "I'm blessed to be able to come out here and play golf, but, if my golf ever started affecting my home life or if it ever affected the relationship I have with my wife or with my son, that's gonna be the last day that I play out here for a living. This is not the be-all, end-all; this is not the most important thing in my life."

To read the full story, visit our content partners at Faithwire.

Reprinted with permission from . Copyright © 2025 The Christian Broadcasting Network Inc. All rights reserved.