

Sean Feucht to Launch 'Awaken America' Revival Tour on New Year's Eve

Praise leader Sean Feucht's "Let Us Worship" tour brought hope to so many Americans during the COVID-19 pandemic as the world struggled with restrictions, isolation and loneliness.

As churches were shut down and people were forbidden to pray or sing together in an unprecedented manner, Feucht and his team launched Let Us Worship during the summer of 2020, traveling across the country to preach hope and salvation to our deeply divided nation. He encouraged people to sing, dance and give their worries to God.

As both a form of protest against government restrictions against religious freedom and as a way to spread revival around America, Feucht set up worship events outdoors and tens of thousands of people came.

Worshippers of all ages, races and backgrounds encountered the joy of salvation and powerful moments of God's healing and redemption.

But Feucht's boldness to stand up for the constitutional freedom of religion didn't come without bitter attacks and threats of violence from people who claimed to care about saving lives.

Opponents of his gatherings accused him of spreading COVID with his outdoor events, which forced him to hire security guards to protect him and his team after receiving death threats.

Feucht has made it known that he plans to continue spreading God's Word across the country, regardless of the pushback he may receive.

In fact, he's launching the "Awake America" revival tour this New Year's Eve in Miami, Florida.

Quoting Isaiah 61:4, Feucht told CBN News, "We have a call as worshippers to 'rebuild the ancient ruins, they will restore the places long devastated, they will renew the ruined cities.'"

He continued, "We are bringing the hope of Jesus to the broken cities across America ... places like Seattle, Chicago, New York City, Philadelphia, and more! Rising crime rates, exploding suicide rates, opioid crisis, rioting, and unrest has plagued our nation and it is time for the church to rise up!"
