

Selena Gomez's Hot Song Actually About Her Relationship With God

Pop sensation Selena Gomez dropped by the Hillsong Young & Free concert recently to perform her song, "Nobody," which she says is about her relationship with God.

"Tonight is more than a concert, it's more than Hillsong, it's more than me coming on stage and singing a song for you. It's about a relationship that is greater than anything," Gomez says.

She and the worship band then performed "Nobody," at the Belasco Theatre in Los Angeles.

"Nobody" goes like this:

*No oxygen, could barely breathe
My darkest sin, You've raised release
And it's all because of You, all because of You
I don't know what it is, but You've pulled me in
No one compares, could ever begin
To love me like You do
Hmm I wouldn't want them to Cause...*

*Nobody's gonna love me like You
Nobody, uh
Nobody, no uh
Nobody's gonna love me like You do
Like You, ooh*

Watch the video to see her performance.