

So Much Has Changed Since COVID: Now What?

It's never coming back to what it was. It's important to be able to navigate the day-to-day impacts of COVID but it's also important to grasp the bigger picture of what God might be doing in the midst of current circumstances. In our latest episode, I'll share both prophetic insight into what I'm hearing from the Lord as well as practical and spiritual measures for beating the virus.

For instance, on the practical side, it's more important to take good, physical care of your body than you might realize and to fight sickness proactively rather than reactively. We tend, in many Christian circles, to associate things of the spirit with the eternal and God, and our bodies with temporary or earthly things. But I want to remind you that we are made in the image of God—that's the whole thing. The whole man—the whole woman—is made in the image of God. And have you ever considered that we won't be rid of our bodies, even after death? We will be bodily redeemed by either the translation or the Resurrection. The last act of redemption is the redemption of our bodies. Philippians 3:21 tells us that Jesus will transform our lowly bodies that it might be conformed to His glorious body.

And concerning the spiritual side, you'll learn what God is evaluating us for over the next six months as well as why it's important to prepare for shortages. What if God is using COVID to prepare us for what's coming? Learn how difficult times and the coming glory are related and how to prepare in both practical and spiritual ways to be used to demonstrate His kingdom!
