

Super Bowl Players Who are 'Just Giving Glory to God'

More than 200 million are expected to watch the Super Bowl this year, and the players know there's no bigger stage to proclaim the gospel.

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

Kansas City Chiefs Quarterback Patrick Mahomes said, "It's important to me every single day. It's not about football, it's just giving glory to God for being able to walk around and live my life, to have a beautiful family, to be able to have the impact on others and I'm going to use that stage and that platform win or lose to give glory back to Him, to hopefully bring others closer to Him and that they can have the same love for life that I have because of that."

Chiefs Wide Receiver Justin Watson said, "It's humbling. Kind of each day and especially each game I just say 'God use me for Your glory' and that doesn't mean winning football games always but just to be in a position and this platform and knowing it's by His grace and His providence is just, you know that He's treating me much better than anything I deserve."

Get your FREE CHARISMA NEWSLETTERS today! Stay up to date with current issues, Holy Spirit news, Christian teachings, Charisma videos & more!

Philadelphia Eagles Tight End Dallas Goedert said, "I believe. I'm a Christian, and it's so important to have a solid foundation and that, my mom instilled that in me. And you know all credit goes out to Him. And you know I'm just so blessed that He's been giving me this opportunity to show the skills that He gave me on such a big platform."

To read the full story, visit our content partners at CBN.

Reprinted with permission from . Copyright © 2025 The Christian Broadcasting Network Inc. All rights reserved.

Join Charisma Magazine Online to follow everything the Holy Spirit is doing around the world!