

Take a Step Into Your Destiny

Many Christians are stuck in the starting blocks when it comes to running their race and fulfilling the dreams God has placed in their hearts. Because they aren't sure how a situation is going to turn out or exactly what they should do, they do nothing.

Instead of running the race God has placed before them (Heb. 12:1), they let worry and anxiety keep them frozen at the starting line.

God has an amazing plan for your life and so many good things in store for you—if you are willing to take a step.

He wants you to participate in the miracle He is doing in your life. If you think you're going to supernaturally wake up at the finish line one day, you'll be disappointed. It doesn't work that way.

In our relationship with God, each one of us receives the great opportunity to walk out our faith. Just as Adam and Eve walked with God in the cool of the garden, or just as the disciples walked with Jesus on the roads of Galilee, we are called to walk with the Lord every day.

In order to walk, you have to do something—you must take the steps God leads you to take. Every day, God is encouraging you to go—to step out, commit your plans to God and trust that He can help you be all that you can be, just as it says in Psalm 37 5 (NKJV): “Commit your way to the Lord, trust also in Him, and He shall bring it to pass.”

Often, because we aren't sure of all the steps, we fail to take even the first one. We're waiting for God to tell us how the next five years of our lives are going to work out, while He is telling us what to do today.
