

Teen Vogue Uses Snapchat to Instruct Kids How to Get an Abortion

Popular magazine Teen Vogue recently published content on Snapchat explaining to teenagers how to get abortions.

“How to Get an Abortion if You’re a Teen” is the name of the social media series—a repurposing of content in an article the magazine published in June under the same title.

The content encourages underage teenagers to tell their parents about their desire to have abortions because “no matter what your parents’ abstract views are, they might behave far more tenderly when their own child needs access to abortion care.”
