

Teenager's Prophetic Word on Gen Z: "We're Breathing Blue Fire Now"

At only 18, Malachi Dawson has decided to set her generation on fire for God.

God has been revealing to her what His intentions are for her generation—to turn them into bold ambassadors for His kingdom.

Dawson recounted on "Sid Roth's It's Supernatural!" how after a couple of hours spent earnestly seeking her heavenly Father, she experienced a great encounter with God. It was during this moment she had a vision she believes was related to Generation Z and the plans God has for them.

"He began to show me that we're breathing blue fire now," Dawson said. "And the blue fire consumed the lamp that it was first bred on, and then it began to just continue to burn."

After doing some research, Dawson discovered that blue flames are the hottest ones that exist.

"The Lord immediately began to give me revelation, and He was saying, 'What is about to happen in Gen Z is unlike anything we've ever seen.'"

Dawson's family shepherds Roar Church in the Texarkana area. Through her time with her family's ministry, she was able to discern a very specific call on her life as an early teenager to reach out to her generation.

"I felt like God set something off inside of me and said, 'Malachi, it's time to call them back to life,'" Dawson said. "Call your generation back to life."

This prompted Dawson to start her own ministry called "The Move” where she’s seeing other teens set free through the power of Christ during hours of praise and worship, which she believes is part of the flames of revival God is igniting on this generation.

“I think it’s different because there’s no limitations,” Dawson said. “We’ll be 10 songs in and people will be like ‘I’m getting tired,’ and we’re like, ‘but God still has something.’ So we continue to press and go after him with no restraint, just an open heaven.”

One of the most riveting and exciting nights Dawson experienced with the group of teens was after a three-hour service in the middle of a group dinner. During this time, one of the worship leaders hopped onto the restaurant’s table and burst out in song. The teens then ran to the parking lot and spent two more hours in worship.

Dawson’s story of being in-tune with the Holy Spirit is just one of many inspirational teens seeking out the presence of God. From what was seen at the Asbury revival and its overflow into other schools around the country, to events like Gen Z for Jesus and Passion Conferences, God is chasing after this generation, and they too are accepting the call.

To watch the full interview, click here. {eo}

 Bring home a copy of Charisma magazine today!

Abby Trivett is a marketing copywriter and coordinator and Staff Writer intern for Charisma Media.