

The Government Takeover of America Has Already Started

With a flourish of his pen, President Barack Obama initiated the beginnings of martial law—four years ago!

Yet many American citizens turned a blind eye and choose to live in blissful ignorance, even today.

What's worse is millions of residents depend by the minute on "the grid," that is the power source that fuels every moment of activity from electricity to water to working online, among myriad other activities.

The government is not protecting the grid—a move Jim Bakker Show panelists believe is done by design to mandate our dependence on the government if attacks happen.

Watch the video to see the details.