

The Morality of Gender Neutrality: Throuples, Grouples, Nibblings, Zoophiles

A new trend is emerging among the media, Hollywood, “science,” public schools, federal and local government officials, and the “medical community” to push transgender and polyamorous relationships (throuples and grouples) as normal.

Female genital mutilation (FGM) is considered a human rights violation by the United Nations. Yet in America parents and doctors legally subjugate minors to sex-reassignment surgery and pubescent blocking drugs with unknown long-term irreversible consequences and with known harmful short-term consequences. Surgical mutilation should be categorized as malpractice and child abuse as FGM would be, yet it is legal and advocated as a “social norm.”

The majority of American parents reject the federal policy mandating public schools to teach children gender neutral terms within the context of “sexual fluidity.” Yet if these children express disagreement they are penalized. Parents are ignored by school boards and must choose whether or not they will re-enroll their children in such public schools that are now creating a hostile environment for heterosexual children.

None of the transgender concepts or practices represent the majority of Americans, yet they reveal an agenda designed to be farther reaching than “marriage equality.”

The 3 percent’s agenda extends beyond achieving “marriage equality” and normalizing transgender, polymorous grouple & throuple relationships—to demand that anyone who disagrees with them be legally punished.

The question is what’s next? If any person can marry anyone they choose, then why prohibit sex and/or marriage with non-human animals and/or children? Why not legalize prostitution, polygamy, pornography with humans and non-human animals, throuples and grouples? Listen to learn more here.
